REA Envirohealth International also acts as a distributor of the QUEST® line of products which are manufactured by 3M Quest Technologies of the USA, a world leader with over 25 years experience in the manufacture of precision industrial hygiene equipment to monitor and test air quality, dust, VOCs, noise and other factors which may affect our occupational environment.

Further, we are also distributors for LEVITT SAFETY LIMITED 2000 of Canada and SKC Inc. of the USA, both of which are well established and reputable suppliers of safety, health and hygiene products.

Additionally REA Envirohealth International has forged strategic working relationships with other service providers in related disciplines, in order to offer a more comprehensive range of services. In short, REA Envirohealth International is a team of competent, qualified and well connected Professional Consultants!

Training

Since 1994, REA has provided workplace health, safety, and environmental training to over 20,000 people in more than 2000 organizations throughout North America. In 2006, REA Envirohealth International launched its programme of workplace health, safety and environmental training in Barbados. For 2015 and in response to our clients' needs, REA Envirohealth International is pleased to offer a more diversified programme of scheduled training to promote health and safety in the workplace and protection of the environment.

REA Envirohealth International is registered by the Barbados Accreditation Council as an approved tertiary training institution. As a result of this registration we are considered by the Technical and Vocational Educational and Training (TVET) Council as a recognized training provider. Occupational Safety and Health is among the present priority areas identified by TVET so this allows employers utilising our courses to access the Employment and Training Fund (ETF) which will cover up to 75% of the cost of training.

Customised Training

Need training in an EHS subject not listed here? Let us know, and we'll create and deliver a programme for you. We will also tailor our training to address your specific needs, requirements, and internal policies and procedures. REA Envirohealth International provides in-house training in most of the EHS subject areas typically required by organizations. Contact us for information.
